Opened call for grants for the first UniCredit & Universities Summer School Program

UniCredit & Universities Foundation opened the call for allocation of four scholarships in amount of EUR 1,500 for the 1st UniCredit & Universities Summer School Program abroad. The scholarships will enable students from 17 European countries where UniCredit operates, including Serbia, to attend at a Summer School lasting a maximum of three weeks in July and/or August 2015 at the Barcelona Graduate School of Economics or London School of Economics. All interested may submit the applications until January 15th 2015.

The applications are being submitted online directly on the Foundation's website. The Scientific Committee of the Foundation shall no later than March 15th 2015 choose four scholars, as well as two reserves. The winners will then send their applications directly to the chosen faculty, noting that they earned the right to a scholarship from the UniCredit and Universities Foundation. In order to apply for the competition, it is necessary that candidates are citizens of one of the countries where UniCredit operates, including Serbia, no matter on which university in the world they are enrolled. In addition, candidates should be enrolled in at least their third year of studies, or in a Master's or PhD program, in economics, finance, banking, management engineering, political science or law.
