Ten more days to apply for journalism award "Writing for CEE 2015"

Submission deadline for the international journalism award "Writing for CEE 2015" which is organized for the twelfth time by Austria Press Agency (APA) and UniCredit Bank Austria expires on July 31st 2015.

In order to be taken into consideration, the articles must be published in the period from August 1st 2014 to July 31st 2015 within print media or television and radio. Articles published on internet portals can also be submitted. However, individual articles published on blogs or in the form of post, will not be taken into consideration. Text content can be related to all aspects of life - politics, economy, daily life, culture or art.

An international jury will select only one winner at the ceremony which will be held in Vienna in November, and on this occasion the money prize will be awarded to him.

When submitting applications, it is essential that authors, along with the article in the original language submit its translation into English, as well as its biography. All additional information, as well as application form for journalism award "Writing for CEE", can be found on the website: www.apa.at/cee-award.
